LONDON, Sept. 16.—Shuttling across the English Channel in steady relays, British bombers today hammered German-held ports in northern France and the low countries.

Seeking to smash any invasion attempt in its infancy, the British raiders dropped their bombs on barges, steamers, docks, and military equipment.

Reports from British coast towns stated that the noise of the heavy exploding bombs could be heard from the continental coast—more than 20 miles away.

The glare of gigantic fires could be seen from the English cliffs despite the heavy haze which engulfed the channel.

The mountains this time of year, are beginning to take on their "best dress" in colorful hues, as the leaves are turning to rustic browns, burnt orange and yellows fading from deep shades to more delicate hues, giving the effect that Mother Nature had tipped a bucket of vari colored paint over the top, just hitting the edge of the branches, and transforming the forrests into a picture that would be hard for any artist to duplicate. This sight is taking many to the woods, over holiday and week end periods.

Shot By Fiance

The body of Florence Tucker (above), 21, was found in her Woodside, L. I., apartment. Nearby was that of her fiance, Naval Lieut. James Bacon, 22. Police believe they quarreled because the girl, who was just graduated from Brooklyn State Hospital of Nursing, insisted on working for some time before marrying. They believe Bacon shot the girl in her sleep, then turned the gun on himself.

Berlin Reports More Attacks

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—Heavy bombing attacks were carried out on Birmingham, Liverpool, Southampton, Portland, Dover and London during yesterday and last night, the German high command reported today.

The noon communique, which reported widespread damage throughout the British Isles, also claimed that German planes sank three merchant ships and crippled two others.

British planes, repulsed in an attempt to reach Berlin, bombed residential districts in towns in western Germany, killing two civilians and injuring several others, the communique said.

She is a graduate of Mt. Vernon college and plans to attend the University of Syracuse during the term 1940-41.

State Funeral For Speaker Bankhead

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—President Roosevelt leads official Washington in paying tribute to the late Speaker William B. Bankhead at a state funeral today, but only after the house elects Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas as speaker.

The president will attend the state services in the Capitol and also the services in the speaker's home town as Jasper, Ala.

Veteran house members, after combing precedents, decided that it was necessary for the house to elect a new speaker before it could properly pay tribute to the beloved Bankhead.

Rayburn, as Democratic floor leader, was assured of election as speaker, perhaps by unanimous vote.

Mr. Roosevelt, sorrowed by the death early Sunday of the late speaker, who had conferred with him regularly upon progress of legislation, made known his intention of attending both funeral services. The Capitol services will take place in the house chamber at 12:30 p. m.

"In the untimely death of the speaker," said Mr. Roosevelt in a

CONSCRIPTION BILL SIGNING TODAY

Call For Registration Of 21-35 Men Likely To Be About October 15

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—President Roosevelt signs the compulsory military bill today to place the nation on a virtual wartime footing and to give the United States a trained fighting force bigger than Hitler's in five years.

Calling for registration of 16,500,000 men between ages of 21 and 35, (inclusive) for a full year's military training, it was the first peacetime "draft" in the history of the United States.

Besides conscripting manpower, it drafted industry.

The White House announced that Mr. Roosevelt would sign the act at 3 p. m. EST in the cabinet room in the presence of Secretary of War Stimson, Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, and other high officials.

Later, the president was to name the head of the draft board to administer the act; appoint about 6,500 local draft boards; issue a proclamation setting registration day (around October 15) and promulgate a series of regulations to clarify the act of congress.

Meanwhile, congress was expected to pass quickly another $1,940,886,976 appropriation bill to finance compulsory training. Bringing total defense costs to more than 16 billion dollars, Mr. Roosevelt asked for the money Saturday.

Guard Men Mobilizing

But even before Mr. Roosevelt put his signature on the precedent-shattering conscription bill, mobilization started—mobilization of the National Guard for a year's intensive training.

Approximately 60,000 of the guardsmen began marches from their homes to army posts, today as the first contingent of the full guard to be mustered out. Before the first of the year 200,000 guardsmen—the entire force—will be in camps.

Joining the militia in about two months will be the first of the conscriptions.

Administration of the act will be that speedy. While it took congress mort than a month of debate to pass the measure, it will take the joint army and navy selective service committee (draft board) only about 60 days from the time the president signs until the first batch of conscripts—probably numbering about 75,000—will be in a uniform.

Invited to the White House to witness President Roosevelt's historic act were high command of the Army and Navy; Sen. Burke (D) Neb., and Rep. Wadsworth (R) N. Y. co-authors of the bill; senate majority leader Barkley; acting speaker Rayburn of Texas and Sen. Shepard (D) Tex., and Rep. May (D) Ky., heads of the military affairs committees in congress.

Seeks To Shatter Precedent

The president is approving the bill only 50 days before the national

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas today was unanimously elected speaker of the house to succeed William B. Bankhead as congress prepared for a state funeral for the deceased speaker.

Rayburn, 58 years old, relinquished his post as Democratic floor leader to become the fourth speaker of the house since President Roosevelt entered the White House, Speakers Rainey and Byrnes having been taken by death as was Bankhead.

With congress sorrowing for the late speaker, Republican leader Joe Martin had ordered Republicans to forego nomination of a rival candidate, so that Rayburn could be chosen quickly and unanimously. Rayburn was nominated by Rep. McCormack (D) Mo., chairman of the Democratic caucus.

WEATHER REPORT CHEERS BRITAIN

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Sept. 16—What Prime Minister Winston Churchill has predicted will be the most crucial week of the war was ushered in today with three brief bombing attacks on London and a new long-range shelling of the Dover area by German big guns emplaced at Calais.

Together with official announcement that 186 Nazi air raiders have been shot down within the past 24 hours, Britain was heartened by a weather report strongly indicating that no invasion can be attempted for the moment at least.

Sea Is Choppy

A formal report on what was described as "invasion weather" said: "Broken and heavy rainfall is prevailing over the Dover coast. There is a low ceiling and mist and the sea water is choppy."

While the new raids in London were under way, various cities and towns in southeastern England also were attacked.

One southeast coast town was heavily bombed. Casualties there included a woman and child and two soldiers killed when a post office was hit.

Considerable damage to residential property was reported, and a furniture warehouse set afire by a direct hit.

The German bombardment of Dover, believed carried out to calibrate the "big berthas" planted on

(International News Service)

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 16.—The U. S. S. St. Louis steamed into St. Johns harbor today bearing American naval experts who will inspect sites for air and naval bases in New Foundland.

Rear Admiral J. W. Greenslade headed the group of American naval technicians whose work will constitute actual implementation of the recent destroyers-for-bases exchange between the United States and Great Britain. The exchange contemplates establishment of a great crescent of western hemisphere defense bases ranging from New Foundland in the north to Trindad in the Caribbean.

Three airplanes were made ready at St. Johns airport for reconnaissance flights of the American officers over prospective base sites.

Rome Asserts Blocking Of Traffic At Suez Canal Will Be Halted

CLAIM BRITISH SUFFER LOSSES

(International News Service)

ROME, Sept. 16. — Driving British troops back, the desert army of Marshal Rodolpho Graziani has penetrated further into western Egypt, and fighting is now raging beyond Sollum, the high command announced today.

British and native troops, seeking to stem the advance of the Fascist mechanized units, have sustained heavy losses of men and equipment, it was claimed.

The bulletin contained a formal, official announcement that the Egyptian offensive "has begun."

Government Threat

A government spokesman declared:

"Italy can no longer permit Egypt to be used as a base for attacks on Libya and Ethiopia nor can it tolerate the blocking of Italian traffic in the Suez through the violation of international agreements.

"Italy still does not desire to drag the Egyptian people into war, but the action is made necessary by the supineness of the Egyptian government."

Occupation of Sollum, a British base near the Libyan-Egyptian frontier, was confirmed by the military bulletin.

A communique, issued earlier today, reported new Italian bombing attacks on Malta, British base in the Mediterranean.

tribute to Bankhead, "every American loses a tried and proven friend of our system of government. His experience, his fairness and his personality had endeared him to his colleagues and to all who knew him."

Members of the cabinet, supreme court justices, the senate, diplomats and many officials of the government will join in the services for Bankhead, who died in naval hospital early Sunday morning after five days' illness. The body will be taken to his home in Jasper, Ala., late this afternoon, for final services and interment tomorrow. A committee of 60 representatives will accompany the remains southward.

Tributes to Bankhead who, at 66 had served 23 years in the house and had been speaker since 1936, flowed into the capitol from all parts of the nation.

A noted orator, Bankhead was keynoter of the recent Democratic national convention and vied with Henry A. Wallace for the party's vice-presidential nomination.

Friends attributed his death, caused by a ruptured artery in the abdomen, to his devotion to the Democratic party. Worn by legislative duties and the Chicago convention, he went to Baltimore last Tuesday to deliver a campaign speech. He was stricken with an attack of sciatica in Baltimore.

a reporter on the Wisconsin State Journel at Madison, died a few moments after he was brought to St. Vincent's hospital in Green Bay. Stumpf suffered a neck injury and burns, but his condition was not regarded as critical. Sheriff Kellner said Stumpf told him he was dozing in the back seat at the moment of the accident, but that he believed Young Frank was driving.

The sheriff disclosed that Dr. Frank had been due to Green Bay at 7:30 o'clock last night, but that he had telephoned Roger Minahan, one of the men he was to see, that he would be late bacause something had gone wrong with his auto's headlamps. The accident occurrred at 8:30 p. m.

Sheriff Kellner said that pending a complete investigation he did not know whether the crash was caused by another failure of the headlamps.

Was Senate Candidate

Nationally known as a brilliant educator, and journalist, and for his part in the framing the 1940 Republican platform, Dr. Frank was killed almost on the eve of Wisconsin's primary tomorrow, in which he was a Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate. He made his final campaign speech yesterday afternoon at Stoughton, Wis.

Willkie was informed of the accident as he prepared to make his first major campaign speech in Coffeyville, Kansas. He said:

"I am greatly shocked to hear of the death of Glenn Frank. The recent report of the Glenn Frank (platform) committee was one of the most important political documents ever drafted. I am personally distressed at his death."

Dr. Frank became president of the University of Wisconsin in 1925. He was removed 12 years later, during the governorship of Philip LaFollette. He was a bitter foe of what he called "La Folletteism," and in his final campaign talk yesterday pledged himself to finish the fight which two years ago resulted in the defeat at the polls of Gov. LaFollettee and the entire progressive ticket.

After he left the University, Dr. Frank became editor of Rural Progress a farm magazine. Two years ago he was named to head a national GOP platform-drafting committee. It was his first political post.

GERMAN-HELD CHANNEL PORTS ARE HAMMERED

Antwerp, Ostend, Flushing, Dunkerque, Calais, and Boulogne.

The new attacks quickly followed yesterday's aerial offensive by R. A. F. planes against Nazi supply bases as far inland as the Rhine valley.

Six supply depots, capable of sustaining an invading force, were raided, the air ministry reported. These included Brussels, Osnabrueck, Mannerheim, Hamm, Aachen, and Krefeld.

German railroad communications at Westhofen, Sundern, Huefsten, Rheims, and Ahaus also were reported bombed.

Other R. A. F. squadrons sought out German gun emplacements along the channel, particularly concentrating their attack at Cap Gris Nez where several Big Berthas are known to be in position.

Although the admiralty would not comment, it was unconfirmedly reported that British naval units were aiding the R. A. F. by shelling the coastal harbors.

GERMAN CANNONADE FAILS TO BLAST INVASION BASE

land, trembled and fifty German bombers turned around and fled as British anti-aircraft flamed along the coast in a barrage of fire many miles long and four miles high. Bursts of black smoke made a single line for many miles along the coast.

It gave fresh testimony to the history-making superiority of the defense of these islands and the sight of fleeing German planes dovetailed neatly into statistics of Royal Air Force victories which otherwise would have been almost incredible.

There were 100 bombers coming in for some obscure reason beneath a cloud bank about 15,000 feet high. German fighters must have been above the clouds. British anti-aircraft does not usually fool with individual planes but saves its fire for such formations.

Half Of Planes Flee

This morning, when the anti-aircraft cut loose it apparently astonished the Germans. Their Canada goose formation broke in two and half of the planes, apparently under command of a group leader, headed straight back to the Nazi coast. The other fifty dispersed into small units and winged in several directions inland.

The failure of Adolf Hitler's invasion to begin has not resulted in faintest relaxation of vigilance here. All along hundreds of miles of British coast tens of thousands of watchers all day and all night stand by their guns while thousands with telescopes peer toward Nazidom and R. A. F. scouters maintain intense patrols over every one of Hitler's seaports.

There are few dull moments in this target for invasion. We were chatting within a British castle which was old when Harold came to England. With typical British confidence the officer said:

"Hitler's all bluff. If he doesn't come soon we'll have to build a bridge for him."

Bombs Drop Nearby

At that very moment we all held our breath for suddenly there came the most blood-curdling of all sounds, the whistling screech of bombs nearby. There were five of them—what they call one stick. We were surprised because they came from a German plane so high that its motors could not be heard even faintly. It must have been miles above the low-lying cloud-bank.

The high howl of the bombs came to a nerve-wracking end with five terrific explosions in plain view a few hundred yards away. It was as if Hitler had overheard the officer's remarks and wished to answer him.

The German was bombing absolutely blind and could not possibly have had any idea of what his target was, save that it might be some part of the British Isles. A naval officer burst into the dining room to announce that a time-bomb had landed in his garden and that his whole neighborhood had been evacuated. He admitted that the war, which until now had been a professional matter, was from this moment a personal one.

Air Raids Are Common

This coastal population proves as well as London itself that the people of these islands are as tough as their history indicates. Air raids in these parts last sometimes nearly all day and the inhabitants have learned to take them as casually as rainy weather.

Despite the government's advice to evacuate the area which Germans might attempt to seize initially, streets in the towns and country lanes are still bright with the laughter of children and more than one-half the normal population still carries on.

Why Hitler has not yet attacked is the principal topic of talk in every home, cafe and barracks. One thing is sure. It cannot have depended upon the weather, because during the last ten days Hitler had every conceivable variety of weather; moonlight calm nights, dark and cloudy calm nights, foggy nights and rough, medium and smooth channels.

One possibility is that the chief obstacle to invasion is the punishment nightly being inflicted by the R. A. F. upon Hitler shipping and troop concentrations.

We stood last night atop a chalk cliff and watched life in Nazidom. They say Hitler himself is there, gazing like Napoleon upon the one country he could not scare.

Snakes in the White Sands National Monument near Alamagordo, N. M., have become nocturnal in their habits to escape the combined glare of sun and dazzling sands in the daytime.

ERIE CONFERENCE COMES TO CLOSE

of the Division of Foreign Missions of the Board of Missions of the Methodist church.

Dr. Diffendorfer spoke as the leader of missionary work of the largest Protestant denomination in America. He spoke upon the background of his travels and observations through Europe, Latin-America and Asia.

Visiting Methodist ministers preached from different local pulpits yesterday morning and evening as the conference itself, at First Methodist, moved through its final day.

Bishop Preaches

Rev. Homer B. Davis, former New Castle minister, conducted the conference love feast which opened religious activity yesterday morning in the conference church. Then Bishop Straughn, new to the Pittsburgh area which he heads, preached the 11 o'clock sermon. From churches throughout the district came hosts of Methodists to hear their new area leader. The First Methodist choir sang.

Ordination services came during the afternoon with Bishop Straughn again presiding.

Then Dr. Diffendorfer addressed the night audience, which matched the overflow morning crowd in size.

"Youth Night"

The conference marked "Youth Night" Saturday evening with a crowd that forced conference leaders to throw open the dividing doors between the church auditorium and Sunday school hall.

Reading of the appointment of ministers, the list of which appears elsewhere in the issue, comes as the climax of each conference, and last night's reading was no exception. Many pastoral changes were revealed as the list was read.

LONDON REPORTS 186 NAZI PLANES LOST IN 24 HOURS

the French coast was answered by a British artillery attack. The British gunners drew a bead on gun emplacements and harbor installations at various points along the Channel.

Clear Up Palace Debris

Workmen were busy today clearing up new debris around Buckingham Palace resulting from an apparently intensive German campaign to wipe out the royal residence.

Two delayed-action bombs landed on the palace or its grounds yesterday. One struck in front of the building and the other crashed into a bathroom in the northwest wing. Both were removed and dumped in a lake.

A number of incendiary bombs landed in the grounds, causing a number of minor fires which were speedily extinguished.

Six persons were killed and several injured when a bomb wrecked four houses in one London district last night. Four other persons were killed in another section of the city.

During the 86th raid today faint anti-aircraft fire was audible in the London area. No planes were heard and there was no other activity.

Time Bombs Explode

Two time bombs went off simultaneously in a southeast London district this morning, killing several persons and injuring some others. Several small houses were demolished and a gas main in a roadway was shattered by the blast.

The ministry of information today revealed that during a raid last week the famous Tate Gallery (the national gallery of British art) was damaged. Extent of the damage to the structure, which houses one of the world's finest collections of paintings, was not disclosed.

It was learned that a few incendiary bombs fell in a coastal town of northern Ireland during the early morning hours. No other Irish bombings were reported.

While alarm sirens screamed and Londoners dived into shelters, British censors permitted revelation that no less than 35 separate London areas were bombed last night.

At the same time, they claimed that a total of 186 Nazi raiders had been shot down in the past 24 hours.

Simultaneously it was revealed that a large formation of German planes was beaten back this morning in a fierce combat with R. A. F. fighting planes off England's southeast coast.

Action in the aerial battle over Britain increased in speed and tempo as the German air legions battled with mounting fury to level London and clear a path—if they can—for the anticipated attempt to invade the British Isles.

MISS MIRIAM WALLACE BRIDE OF J. L. FORSYTHE

Miss Miriam Wallace, daughter of Mrs. William A. Wallace, Mt. Jackson, became the bride of J. LeRoy Forsythe of Millheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Forsythe of Wilkinsburg, Pa., at a beautiful country church wedding Saturday afternoon, the event taking place in quaint Westfield Presbyterian church. Dignity and serene beauty marked the nuptial ceremony which was solemnized before the beautifully decorated altar.

Rev. Edwin A. Shoemaker, pastor, officiated with the single ring service and heard the exchange of vows at 2 o'clock in the presence of a gathering of friends and relatives of the couple.

Palms and ferns with white gladioli placed at accent points, created a delightful background, while bouquets of rose-tinted hydrangeas were used to mark the pews for the entire length of the double aisles, and the beauty of the stained glass church windows was used as a background for pink gladioli and white pom-pon mums.

The bride entered on the arm of her eldest brother, Harold Wallace, who gave her in marriage, and she was lovely in a gardenia white chantilly lace gown over taffeta. It combined the charm of the traditional design with that of the modern, in soft sweetheart neckline and flaring hemline. Her long illusion veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of white orchid shaped gladioli showered with valley illies. Her only jewelry was a diamond and amethyst brooch which was worn by the bridegroom's mother at her wedding.

Miss Pauline Wallace of Cleveland, O., as her sister's maid of honor, was attractive in a taffeta gown of portrait green and she wore in her hair a cluster of pink roses. Her arm bouquet was of briarcliff roses.

Other attendants were Miss Mary Adelaide Flower of New Galilee, Miss Patty Welch of Pittsburgh, Miss Alice Parrott of Mahoningtown and Miss Ruth Gilchrist of Mt. Jackson. Their appearance further enhanced the bridal picture, wearing creations of rose taffeta and clusters of roses pinned in their hair. Their flower muffs were of briarcliff roses.

Flower girls were Marilyn Wallace and Shirley Duff, who were attired in dainty white gowns, trimmed in lime green ribbons.

Harold Gilmore of Millheim was best man, and ushering were Paul Wallace, brother of the bride, Theodore Benson of Mt. Jackson, Edward M. Welch of Pittsburgh and James Delancy of Millheim. Master William Wallace was the ring bearer.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Margaret Duff, church organist, played "Leibestraum" by Liszt, "The Londonderry Air" and Veinlese Refrain" and 'At Dawning" by Cadman. As soloist, W. Howard Gilmore, tenor, sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me". For the wedding processional, "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was resounded and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was chosen for the recessional.

Mrs. Wallace wore a stone blue silk crepe dress with black and white accessories and her shoulder corsage was of orchid gladioli and yellow roses. Mrs. Forsythe chose a soft pearl gray silk crepe with purple accessories and her shoulder bouquet harmonized.

Following a congratulatory period, a reception was held in the grange dining room for a throng of guests. The nuptial motif prevailed.

The couple left on a wedding trip, the bride being attired in a delph blue wool crepe with black accompaniments. Upon returning, they will take up residence in Millheim, Pa., where Mr. Forsythe is employed. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh in the School of Pharmacy, and the bride attended the Lock Haven State Teachers college.

The rehearsal dinner was given Friday evening for 25 guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wallace.

Out of town guests attended from Pittsburgh, Millheim, Volant, Cleveland, O., Wilkinsburg, Lock Haven, Wheeling, W. Va., Carlton and Shreve, O.

WOE TO THE VANQUISHED

THOSE who thought the French had tasted the full bitterness of defeat when their capital fell and their soldiers were disarmed did not look deeply enough into the cup of despair.

Now there is a report in Washington that the German government has formally demanded of France, unoccupied France, 58 per cent of all the food and raw materials it possesses or that it may import.

Whether this is accurate or not we cannot say. It seems likely. Germany needs food. France is prostrate and helpless. Germany takes the food. That is the law of conquest, and has been ever since Brennus threw his sword contemptuously into the scales weighing out the ransom money for Rome, and snarled contemptuously at the protesting senators, "Vae victis!"—"Woe to the vanquished!"

France shrank from making sacrifices for victory. Now she has defeat—and makes the sacrifices just the same.

AUTUMN'S BLAZE OF GLORY

The generous hand of nature, as if to offer consolation for the prospective loss of foliage and flowers through the coming months, puts on a lovely spectacle.

The world reaches a final climax of beauty in these autumnal days. As if to celebrate the close of a successful season of growth and production, nature dresses her trees and shrubs and vines in all the colors of the rainbow.

Trees that through the summer had worn a garment of sedate and sober green, all at once blossom out into the most vivid yellows, oranges and reds. It is as if they felt such joy in the fullness of their life, that they had to array themselves in the most stunning garments that nature's dressmaker ever thought of. They sing a Hallellujah Chorus of the wonders of nature.

Even the ordinary products of garden and orchard, many of them humble, have a little part to play in this symphony of color. The brilliant yellow of squashes, the bright red and yellow heaps of apples, the purple leaves on cabbages, many products which seem destined merely to appease man's appetite seem to want a part in this glorious concert of color.

As for the idea that this season produces sadness and melancholia, it means that nature is going to sleep for the winter, to awaken in spring ready for one more year of her triumphs.

SADDER BUT WISER

Not only for old times' sake but in recognition of a certain sterling quality, give a hand to Dizzy Dean, once one of the most cocky boys in baseball. The Diz, who told the world often and loudly that he was the only pitcher really worth his salt, was one of the first to admit the fact that he was slipping. The Chicago Cubs had paid $185,000 for his services only to discover that he couldn't serve. So the Dean asked to be sent to the bushes to see if he could tread the rocky comeback trail.

He did. After some two months with the Texas League, experimenting with a sidearm delivery, he returned for another tryout with the Cubs. And of all places, he was sent to Brooklyn to see if he could subdue the Dodgers. Now the type of razzing which Brooklynites have perfected makes the Bronx cheer sound like a bar from the Hallelujah Chorus. They let him have it unmercifully as he fed floaters to the home team. Only occasionally did he try to steam one over, and even then it was evident that Diz was no longer the speed artist he used to be.

But he has found something better than bravado. No more antics and temperament. No more back-talk to the stands. He just concentrated. What's more, he let the Dodgers down 3 to 2 with wily, experienced pitching. When the catcalls faded, he left the field victorious.

Dizzy Dean may not be quite the baseball player he was once, but he's a much better man. He has come back the hard way, and it was he who chose that way. If there is any justice in the world, he will yet chalk up wins sufficient to keep him in the old game for some seasons more.

RECREATION STILL NEEDED

Silence seems to pervade that area from which there came during the last decade myriad suggestions for the wise use of leisure. Americans were informed that they faced an era of increasing free time and that for the good of themselves and the nation they had better prepare to use it properly. Schools and colleges, WPA groups and countless private institutions and organizations participated in an attempt to solve the problem adequately for everyone.

Since Hitler's victory over France and the launching of the huge defense program by the United States, less and less has been heard from the leisure-time groups. It may be that they think there will be little leisure in the days ahead and they do not wish to divert attention from the main objective. Such patriotic motives always are to be admired, but it must not be forgotten that even in the most hectic days there is need for recreation if the morale of the civilian population is to be maintained at a high level.

If any people should be aware of the need for relieving the mind in wartime by playful pursuits, it should be the residents of bomb-stricken England. In an article in the London Times, the "Sage of Selborne," discloses that the conflict, while raising havoc with routine, has not smothered the urge for sport and recreation. "We must have some system, some pattern to live by even in wartime," he writes.

"It is because of this craving for the restoration of order amidst disorder that we find so much satisfaction at such a time in those recreations which minister to the sense of symmetry and rhythm. To the mind frayed and fretted by distractions and frustrations, any occupation which, by way of contrast, proceeds in orderly sequence to achievement has a high therapeutic value in restoring calm and balance."

Many Americans will not agree with him in his choice of recreations, which include the game of patience, stamp-collecting and knitting. Many men especially will not feel inclined to follow his advice that they engage in knitting, despite the precedent of Lord Chancellor Cottenham. But he is correct in pointing out the need for diversion even when a supreme war effort is being made.

According to the new count, there are 100 women to every 97 men in the U. S. It is something to have this feeling of being outnumbered explained.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SCHOOL CHILD NEEDS EQUIPMENT

IN A GREAT many states school books are free, and so are such supplies as writing paper, pens and pencils. In most school systems, however, the home must supply these accessories.

The child who does not have these simple, necessary tools is handicapped. A few just don't have the money for them. For such wise teachers and school boards often find a means: Sometimes the school child's parents will neglect purchase of these supplies; or the child receiving the money may not buy them promptly. The same applies to books which must be bought. Very important it is that the child begin school with all the necessary equipment on hand.

Taking Care

Whether books and supplies be free or not, we parents owe it to our children to train them to handle such property with care and economy; and the more so if they are public property. What an opportunity the home and school have in cultivating good citizenship in this direction! We should have the child cover each of his school books with paper or cloth the very first day of school. Also let him have a bag in which to carry his books and supplies. See that he handles all these school materials at home with great care. When he writes or draws for work or play see that he is not extravagant with materials. Teachers need to stress care and economy of private and public property. Let them often examine the waste-basket and train the children to write on both sides of the sheet of paper.

Home Work

We hope the child, especially the young child, is allowed to take a book home. In some school districts, whole states indeed, elementary children are forbidden the privilege of carrying a book home. Yet how eager the primary child is to show his reader to his parents and playmates, and to read to them from it, especially to his baby brother or sister. In some underprivileged homes there is no other book in sight. A school book carried home by a young child often is a precious bond between him and his parents.

For the child above the fifth grade a fountain pen may be very desirable; also a good dictionary. Wise is the family with growing children which goes without some luxuries in order to have an unabridged dictionary. Wise too the family who has saved in order to have one of the standard encyclopedias, very necessary in these days for the child above the fifth grade, to keep up with his school work. An encyclopedia is valuable, moreover, to help the parent answer the questions of the pre-school child; and to settle family doubts and arguments arising in their conversation.

Machine Age

Also a typewriter may be good investment in the home of the school child, particularly if he be in high school; and a typewriter should be considered standard student equipment for college.

DULL MAN

There was a cardinal on high.
A wren was singing nearer by

And just above him, where he sat
A spider wove a silken mat.

A hawk was drifting on the breeze
Watching for food which he could seize

And had he looked upon the grass
He might have seen a squirrel pass,

Or watched a gopher brown and small
Scurry along the garden wall.

But this is what we heard him say:
"Its been a dull and tiresome day!

"Alone for hours I've had to be
With nobody to talk to me!"

Man also kills only to get food. The difference is that he gets the food in a round-about way by taking territory or markets.

"My daughter, aged 24, was engaged to a superior young man of 30. A year ago, he died and she was then very melancholy and aloof from other men until the past month when a most inferior, dissipated young man has caught her on the rebound and she has been going out with him nightly. How can I break up this affair which worries me day and night?"—Anxious Mother.

Answer: The best cure would be to have someone invite them to spend a rainy week-end in some country place where they can not visit the bright lights or engage in any sports. If he has a car it would not be a heinous crime to puncture one of the tires. Usually, enforced propinquity beneath the eyes of others cures such a case as this. The man you describe probably desires either intimacy with the girl on whom he is lavishing his attentions or some hectic form of entertainment—most probably in a night club or cabaret.

If circumstances require that they be surrounded by friends or relatives whose presence requires conventionality or formality their boredom will react upon each other with consequent disillusionment. If this treatment fails, invite him several times where she will see him in contrast with very superior types of men of the world—the kind who will offer her entertainment, yet who will be clever in their conversation, courteous in their attitude toward women and respected by their own sex. But at no time, berate him to her. This would give her a complex in defense of him.

Other Readers' Questions Answered

Question: Is it proper for a girl to announce her engagement without an engagement ring from her fiance? I am really engaged, but I have no ring. What must I do—L. W. C.

Answer: I think if you do so you will put yourself in an embarassing position. Everyone will look in vain at the third finger of your left hand. The only thing you can do is to announce to your friends that you will be married soon. They will pass the news around by the grapevine 'system. They always do! Make no general announcement of your engagement.

Question: I am to be married in informal clothes. Is it necessary to send out engraved invitations?—A.

Answer: No. You may send out informal invitations written in the first person.

Question: How do I go about selecting guests for my reception?—Bride.

Answer: Ask the groom for a list of those he wishes invited and add to it a list of those you care to have present.

Big Game Hunter After Roosevelt
Tinkham Trains Guns On President
Charges Too Much Power Is Usurped

3 By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Rrepresentative George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts, the celebrated big game hunter, is on President Roosevelt's trail now.

Between sessions of congress George Holden's favorite sport is running down and slaughtering lions, tigers, elephants, hippopotomi, rhinoceroses and similar critters. But this season there hasn't been a long enough legislative recess to get overseas to the haunts of this kind of mammalia, and his collegues say he's pined for a worthy target or two to shoot at.

So, finally, he took after the president, who certainly is as big game as there is available in Capitol Hill's vicinity

Anti-Rooseveltians remark that this bodes ill for the White House tenant, considering George Holden's reputation for acquiring the remains of whatever quarry he devotes his attention to.

Pro-Rooseveltians diagnose the situation otherwise. They admit that Congressman Tinkham has had excellent luck with his varmints hitherto, but they add that they've believed, all along, he'd be eaten up, sooner or later, by some one of the monsters he's so fond of stalking. Their opinion is that his time's come at last.

Hunter Tinkham's Ammunition

The congressman's gun is charged with an accusation that the president is involving the United States in various bargains with a foreign power, in disregard of our constitutional provision that such dickers can be entered into, on our side, only with the senate's approval.

The Boston statesman referred especially to the president's deal for American control of the eight British islands and to the secret Canadian-American defensive compact.

George Holden doesn't question the inherent desirability of these arrangements but his contention is that, in effect, they're treaties, and he points out that the executive end of our government can't constitutionally conclude a treaty, binding on Uncle Sam, lacking senatorial indorsement.

Maybe the two referred to are all right on their merits, but now that the White House has put them across, ignoring the senate, the congressman suggests that perhaps it will commit us to others, that possibly we shan't like so well.

For the administration to shape its policy on the strength even of those two, minus senatorial ratification, the Bostonian insists, will be an act of "brazen dictatorship."

The Rooseveltians' answer is that the two deals the president made aren't out-and-out treaties; that they're mere "understandings."

A Foreign Affairs Veteran

George Holden Tinkham, be it understood, is no individual to be laughed off lightly.

He's a veteran of the representatives' foreign relations committee, for one thing. As a Republican, he's in the minority group, but he knows the world like nobody's business. He has been nearly everywhere on earth—anyway anywhere wherethey have large, ferocious wild animals.

I'm told his collection of hides and tusks and stuffed heads is wonderful.

As a congressional debater he's as fierce as he is as a big game hunter.

He has, so far as I know, the only full set of whiskers in national public life. Technically Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the federal supreme court has a full set, but he keeps his trimmed neatly. George Holden's run wild all over his visage. I'm not joking when I say that this has something to do with his prominence. It makes him conspicuous, to say the least. Seeing him in oratorical action on the representatives' floor, one thinks of him facing a lion in an African jungle, with all that foliage.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GERMAN "NEAR BEER"

Perhaps you have overlooked something about Adolf Hitler. This man, unlike the Kaiser, does not say anything about "Me und Gott." Herr Hitler does not say much about God. He may have a religion of his own, but he does not permit the Germans to have any religion of their own, except "Deutschland Uber Alles."

The Fuehrer is, however, a prohibitionist, believe it or not. He is a tectotaler and is ordering the production of a billion gallons of a new drink which will have "the stimulating effects of beer without the tiring influence of alcohol." In short, "Near-Beer!" Now, near-bear! it will be remembered by the citizens of the United States, neither prohibitionists nor tippler would have anything to do with the stuff. Saint and sinner, alike, rejected it. It was a complete flop, and died without friends.

Now, if the beer-guzzling Germans can stomach that from Hitler, Germany may be given up as being cowed beyond hope of internal salvation and Hitler is destined to rule until and unless he is blasted out by the ale-drinking British.

It is just as difficult to believe that a German will give up his beer and desert his beer gardens, as it is difficult to believe that an intelligent people—a people that have for generations been known as leaders in the realm of science: as composers of beautiful music—have become a brazened, ruthless and barbarous people.

Devitalizing The Fight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16

IT is natural that the war and its problems should make seem insignificant many things which a few months ago loomed very large, Indeed. However, it is hardly necessary altogether to lose our sense of proportion so far as the Presidential campaign is concerned—which is exactly what some seem to be doing.

FOR example, advocates have now arisen who insist upon muzzling the spokesmen on both sides. No one is to say anything disagreeable or unkind about anyone else. Everybody is to wear gloves and use the soft pedal. Issues which generate heat are to be avoided. Unpleasant subjects are to be barred. No one is to speak harshly of anyone else. All this is urged because of the Hitler menace and the necessity for a united country after the election, no matter who is chosen President.

GRANTING, first, the necessity for a united country in the face of a foreign foe, and granting, second, that those who thus counsel the people are high-minded, public spirited and detached, nevertheless their advice is partisan in its effect and unjustified by the facts. In the first place, apprehensions lest a robus campaign in which spades are called spades, real blows exchanged and the full truth told, result in a dangerously divided people are unfounded.

THIS is not that kind of country and never has been. Whether Mr. Willkie or Mr. Roosevelt is elected, in all matters of national defense, the next President will have the solid support of the people just as surely if the campaign is hot as if it is lukewarm. Devitalizing the issues is not going to promote national unity after the election. If there is the threat of a foreign foe, the country as a whole will be back of its President, regardless of whether the campaign is rough or whether it is conducted with the nice decorum of a boarding-school debate.

NO one wants a dirty fight, but that is no reason for wanting a denatured one. Malignant lies are, of course, abhorrent, but except from the irresponsible and unimportant, there is no indication that these will be used by either side. And the blatant name callers, like Mr. Ickes, do little harm—in fact, answer themselves. No better evidence that strong feeling and strong words will not divide the people in the face of national danger could be had than the unity with which Mr. Roosevelt's defense proposal have been adopted by Congress and supported by newspapers and individuals who distrust him personally and believe his policies have dismally failed. He has, in fact, gotten more effective support from them than from some of his own ardent aides, desperately trying to keep him in the White House.

AS for the political effect of such a campaign as is suggested, unquestionably, it would suit the New Dealers one hundred per cent. It would fit sweetly into the Roosevelt strategy, as approved by those broad-minded patriots, Mr. Eddie Kelly and Mr. Eddie Flynn, with both of whom the President is in constant communication. The New Dealers are delightedly saying—and it is true—that Mr. Roosevelt is conducting the slickest campaign ever known. Posing as so absorbed by the great problems of the Presidency that he is aloof from all thought of politics, he is skillfully directing his own fight, with personal attention to such details as sending for little local politicians to come to the White House, approving the speeches of his spokesman and advising as to the committee's finances as well as its publicity.

AND all this is being done behind the screen of the defense program, the President's public position, over which the Messrs. Kelly and Flynn are particularly enthusiastic, being that he has no time for politics and political speeches are unpatriotic. Of course, it is slick strategy, but it is also hypocritical and deceptive. And

Bible Thought For Today

O fear the Lord, ye his saints: for there is no want to them that fear him. The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger: but they that seek the Lord shall not want any good thing —Psalm 34:9, 10.

Hints On Etiquette

It is not necessary to thank a maid when she passes food to you at a dinner.

Words Of Wisdom

Be not merely good; be good for something.—Thoreau.

Four Banquet To Keep "Last Man's Club" Vow

Five chairs were vacant when New Castle's unique "Last Man's club"—organized by nine local Masonic men almost a half century ago—met for its 43rd annual reunion in the Penn-Grove hotel in Grove City.

Back in 1897, the nine—all New Castle businessmen—assembled to form "The Chapter club" and vowed to dine annually until the last of the nine died. That vow still holds.

They vowed, too, to have nine chairs circling the dinner table every year to have the deceased members' names upon place cards just as though they were living—and that vow has not been broken.

The late Clare P. DuShane was the club's founder and today E. E. is president and Herb D. McGoun secretary-treasurer.

The dinners are informal, and speeches are out. Reminiscing holds forth.

The other surviving members with Seavy and McGoun are Ford Brandon and Edward L. Smith.

The five who have died, but for whom chairs and place cards were arranged according to tradition, were Harry L. Dunlap, George K. Welsh, Harry K. Gregory, Charles P. Shaw and the founder, Mr. DuShane.

Early banquets were held at the home of the members.

Eas of the nine members had at one time been an officer on the Delta chapter of the Masonic organization here.

The Great Game Of Politics

a polite campaign in which no unkind words are said and no strong attack made would be of immense aid in making it successful It would mean that Mr. Roosevelt's opponents would be debarred from exposing the false pretense of his non-political attitude; that they could not refer to the fakery of the "draft" at Chicago, in which he connived.

It would mean that they could not discuss the third-term issue, except in academic terms; that they could not make clear the fact that Mr. Roosevelt's nomination was secured by, and his election hope depends upon, the support of three of the most unsavory political machines in the country, the heads of which are personally close to him. The truth is that a gentle debate such as is proposed would make it impossible to attack Mr. Roosevelt on any really vulnerable point. It would furnish him complete protection. It would play his very slick game to the limit—and his opponent would be a complete sap to fall for it.

MORE than that—to shadow box through this campaign is not fair to the American people, in that it tends to keep the truth away from them. No one need fear that a hard-hitting campaign will divide the nation after election. There is not nearly as much danger in a robust —and even bitter battle—as in one where a blurring of the facts may lead to the election of the wrong man.

PENN POWER SINGERS ON KIWANIS PROGRAM

A luncheon program by the Pennsylvania Power Co. chorus will feature the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club in The Castleton on Wednesday. Lyle C. Hughes, program chairman and president-elect of the club, arranged the singers' appearance.

Carrying Tax Fight To Court, Jones Says

Because the New Castle Board of Education has had sufficient time to rescind its methods in the collection of delinquent per capita school taxes, and has not done so, the Junior Chamber of Commerce can "only submit the cause to the courts at the earliest possible moment," Presley N. Jones, past president and head of the junior chamber's protesting group, said today.

At a Court House rally some time ago, Jones recalled, citizens endorsed the junior chamber's efforts to protest the manner of collection. The method was branded "unreasonable" by speakers.

Students returning to the Davis Memorial Bible school today are Mrs. Helen Campbell, Miss Sara Swan and Kenneth Robb. Miss Malinda Walker leaves New Castle this afternoon as a missionary to the Navajo Indians in Window Rock, Arizona.

Miss Ruby Ziegler will go to Philadelphia on Friday to be ordained and commissioned by the Mission Board of the Virginia Inland Faith Mountain Mission as a missionary in Elkton, Va. elections when he will seek to shatter another precedent by being elected to a third term.

However, the nation's election machinery was to be used before Mr. Roosevelt's political fate is decided on November 5. Together with its 700,000 local election workers, the machinery will be commandeered for registration of the 16,500,000 who come under the draft. It was expected that the president would fix registration day about October 15, possibly on October 16 or October 22.

The local draft boards will then take the registration cards, shuffle and number them and send them to Washington where records will be made. The cards will then be sent back to the local boards. Then a national lottery will be held to determine the number to be called up for training first. That routine, although cumbersome, will take only a matter of days since the draft plan has been in preparation for years.

First In November

It was believed that the first group of conscripts would be sent to camp about November 15, a total of 400,000 by January 1 and a total between 800,000 and 900,000 by April 1. At that time, the nation will have under arms, if the army recruits up to full peacetime strength, the following troops:

Regular army—375,000.
National Guard—220,000
Conscripts 900,000.
Total—1,495,000.

Under the draft act, which expires in 1945 up to 900,000 men can be trained annually. In five years, 4,500,000 reserves will have been trained. Counting the regular army and navy and the National guard, the number of trained men then would be more than 5,000,000—or more than Hitler's army of an estimated 4,500,000.

The conscription bill decreed that the conscripts can be used only in the western hemisphere. However, the language is considered broad enough to allow use of the troops in Canada or any south or central American country if invasion of the western hemisphere is threatened in violation of the Monroe doctrine.

NATIONAL HORSE PULLING CONTEST AT HARRISBURG

The National Horse Pulling contest is scheduled at Harrisburg in conjunction with the National Dairy Show, October 12 to 19. The contest has been officially designated the National by the Horse and Mule Association of America, whose rules and regulations control all official pulling contests throughout the world.

In the contest the Pennsylvania State College dynamometer will be used and men in charge of pulling contests in Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland will be officials in the National contest.

Cash premiums aggregate $2,000. Teams under 3,000 pounds weight (neither horse to exceed 16 hands measured from the top of the shoes) will compete for $1,000; preliminaries will be on October 14 and finals for this class on October 15. The pairs 3,000 pounds and over also will compete for $1,000 with preliminaries on October 16 and the finals on October 17.

All contests will be staged on the clay floor of the livestock judging amphitheatre at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Building.

C. A. Burge, livestock extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, urges Pennsylvania teamsters to enter their teams in the contests at county and community fairs and in the National contest at Harrisburg.

RAISE HEIFERS AT HOME TO BUILD DAIRY HERD

Two ways are open to the dairyman who wishes to obtain a herd of high-producing cows. He can buy cows or he can breed and raise the necessary heifers for replacements.

A dairyman, careful and keen in selecting cows, may be able to puhchase and gradually collect a high-producing herd. In buying such a herd, however unseen and unknown troubles, such as disease and breeding troubles, as well as cows of low production, may be obtained.

A study of 13,357 cows on 863 farms made by A. R. Merrill, extension dairy specialist in Connecticut, revealed the following, showing first purchaser replacements and home-raised replacements:

Average number years cows stay in herd 2.6—4.0.

Per cent sales because of low production 34.5—19.5.

Per cent sales for dairy purposes 13.5—65.3.

Per cent sales because of disease and breeding troubles 43.8—11.1.

Per cent sales for other causes 8.2—4.1.

From this study the purchase of replacements seems to be a rather hazardous procedure. A good breeding program and the raising of all replacements will eliminate many troubles. The economy of raising replacements also is rather significant after studying the above figures.

The cost of raising a well-bred heifer is no greater than that of raising a scrub. An increase of only 300 to 500 pounds of milk per cow per year would more than pay the difference between a poor bull and a good bull for the average herd.

DISEASES CAUSE LARGE LOSS IN VEGETABLES

Diseases cause a loss of approximately 25 per cent to the average vegetable grower who does not practice effective control measures.

This loss may come from failure to obtain stands in the seedbed and field, lowered quality of the crops, reduction of keeping ability and reduced yields.

Losses are caused by the combined action of many diseases. In his manual of vegetable garden diseases, Dr. Charles Chupp lists 38 vegetable crops and reports an average of 5.5 diseases per crop. Some of the more important vegetable crops have many more diseases.

Cabbage has 18 diseases, the sweet potato has a similar number, the cucumber has 24 diseases and the important potato crop has 74 different diseases.

TILE LINES BEST FOR DRAINING WET FIELDS

Many Lawrence county fields cannot be brought into a uniformly high state of cultivation because they are too wet in spots. Pot holes can be darined by means of a tile line running through the surrounding rise of land to a lower outlet. Hillside seeps need intercepting drains.

Over-wet soil usually is cold, too soft in the spring, and too hard and dry in the summer. Drainage will convert cold damp, heavy soil into a warm, mellow and easily tilled soil. It will make the soil more retentive of fertilizer and necessary moisture, putting the soil in top physical condition for producing the best crops. Increased yields often will pay for the cost of draining in one to three years.

Tile drains are best. They occupy no land, thus permitting the entire field to be farmed. Properly constructed, they are long-lived and seldom need cleaning.

Revised Circular 112, "Drain the Wet Spots", illustrates work in progress and the results. It shows how a few well-located lines often do better work than a regular system.

Detailed information on land drainage and suggestions on the proper type of tile layout to use may be obtained at the local Agricultural Extension office, 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

POISON ORCHARD MICE IN CONCENTRATION STATIONS

Strategically located "concentration stations" provide the best place for destroying the mice which girdle trees in apple orchards.

A small bundle of corn fodder, a pile of grass or weeds, or a forkful of old hay or straw will provide an excellent concentration station. All mice within 20 feet of a station may be expected to build trails leading to it. Many nests will be made in them.

If these stations are placed in the orchard before the end of September, numerous trails or runways will be built by the mice leading to them.

The mice remain under cover whenever possible. To control the animals, poison bait can be placed in the runways under the concentration stations. When this is done, chances are good that the mice will get it. There is slight possibility of other animals coming in contact with the poison.

It is a good plan to bait infested areas adjoining the orchard for a distance of about 100 feet. The best place for the concentration stations is in good natural cover.

Directions for the preparation of the poison bait may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Office, New Castle.

OBTAIN MORE LIGHT FOR ELECTRIC ENERGY BURNED

School days are here again. Days are getting shorter and old and young spend more time using artificial light. Why not adopt the slogan, "Better Light for Better Sight" and prevent unnecessary eyestrain?

No longer does the wise homemaker select her lamps and shades for their color scheme alone, says Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. She is learning that a white or very light shade will not only help the eyes but will save money by giving more light for the electric energy burned.

Most of us have seen on new lamps the letters "I. E. S." These letters do not signify a trade name but stand for "Illuminating Engineering Society." This means certain specifications must be met before the tag can be attached to the lamp.

To determine which bulbs and shades give the best results in the amount of light and ease of treatment of the eyes, a careful test is made. Seventy-five per cent of the light from the bulb must pass through the reflector before the manufacturer can use the tag on the lamp. The rest of the light is reflected to the walls and ceiling.

Light colored walls and ceiling greatly improve the reflection of light, Miss Markle points out.

In most table and floor lamps today, a reflecting bowl of glass is used. This softens the light by spreading it over a larger area and at the same time gives the maximum of light, provided the bowl is used with light shades and walls.

Height of lamp and proper placing of the lamp is important for better light. A lamp too low and with a narrow spread does not allow the maximum of light to spread far from the base of the lamp. This means a limited use of the light produced.

Helpful information for wiring and lighting may be found in Circular No. 215, "Electric Wiring for the Farm.' You may have a free copy upon request to the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle, Pa.

PACIFIERS

I get many letters from mothers who want to know what I think about giving a baby a "comfort" or "pacifier"—you know, those gadgets mothers so often stick in the baby's mouth to keep him from crying. I invariably reply that I do not approve of their use. Usually this is all there is to it, but a few times mothers have written right back criticising me for this attitude. In one of these before me now, I'm accused of being too old-fashiond and of allowing my experience with the Quintuplets to cause me to lose sight of the way ordinary mothers, without nurse maids, must bring up children.

Well, my objection to the "comfort" can't be taken either as a sign I'm old-fashioned or have extraordinary ideas because of the Quins. Goodness knows, there hasn't been anything done in the upbringing of the Quins that wouldn't be equally sound, and as easy to apply, in the case of ordinary children.

No, my objection to giving a baby a "pacifier" to suck is purely a matter of asepsis—cleanliness. There are other bases for objections, but the uncleanliness of the "pacifier" is objection enough.

I have seen a good many of these "comforts" used. I have gone into dozens of homes where the "comfort" was tied around the baby's neck. When he wasn't sucking on it, it was dragging on the floor, or the cat was playing with it, or something of the sort was happening to it. "Pacifiers" are usually of rubber, and so do not lend themselves to safe sterilization. So, there they are, kicked around the baby's crib and off on the floor. Then when the baby starts to cry, into his mouth it goes, bacteria and all.

It only takes one good set of germs to get down into the intestinal tract and set up a first class case of diarrhea. Diarrhea often kills babies, or if it doesn't by itself, it leaves them so weakened that they fall easy prey to some other infection that finishes the job.

Another objection that has been made to these contraptions is that they may put the child's mouth out of shape just as thumb-sucking does. I suppose that if a baby does suck a "pacifier" a good deal for a long, long period of time it might affect the shape of his mouth.

Giving the baby the "comfort" to keep him from crying isn't the proper discipline he should have and will have to have some day.

But these latter reasons are unimportant compared with the danger of disease that lurks in a "comfort."

ERROR IN PLANTING

(International News Service)

BRISTOL, Conn.—Dr. Benjamin R. Robbins, health officer, is responsible for this story.

He said a man in Bristol took particular care of a dozen "tomato" plants he had in his garden. When the plants failed to produce fruit, he called in a neighbor. Upon examination, the neighbor readily identified the "tomato" plants as ragweed, scourge of hayfever sufferers.

HOW YOU CAN GET A CASH LOAN QUICKLY AND SIMPLY

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $6.97 a month—See table for other loan plans—No credit questions asked of friends or relatives—Quick, friendly service.

YOU can get a personal loan—without red tape or delay—if you can repay in small monthly installments. All you do to apply for a loan at Household is to acquaint us with your problem. You need no bankable security—no endorsers or guarantors.

You may repay your loan on any of the schedules shown in the table below. Thus you may choose the payment plan which best fits your own needs and income.

Payments to fit your purse

Suppose that you need a $100 loan. You find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payment which you wish to make. You will see, for instance, that monthly installments of $9.75 each will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.97 a month for eighteen months will also repay a $100 loan.

You will note that the sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.58 each, or a total of only $106.32, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full.

Same rate to everyone

Installments shown in the table repay everything. These installments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is substantially less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Household has only this one rate—the same for everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

Simple to borrow

You get your Household Finance loan in a simple, private transaction. We require no stocks or bonds, no salary or wage assignment. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) You are spared the embarrassment of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. And no questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives.

Considerate treatment

You may expect every consideration in case of sickness or unemployment while paying on a Household Finance loan. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans. This action was taken only as protection against fraud.

If a loan can help you, phone or visit us for further information. No obligation.

Governor James To Name State Draft Boards

State To Begin Draft Program

Estimate About 450,000 Of Registered Men In State Eligible For Service

CALLS FOR MEN TO COME AT INTERVALS

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Sept. 16.—Pennsylvania's draft machinery will swing into action this week as the state prepares to register for conscription an estimated 1,500,000 men between the ages of 21 to 35.

First step by Gov. Arthur H. James will be the selection of a state draft director and the personnel of the 420 draft boards, which he will forward to Washington for the president's approval. In addition, the governor will also name numerous other draft officials.

About 454,000 Eligible

State military officials estimate that about 454,000 men will be eligible here for the draft after exemptions are made for those with dependents and those employed in vital defense industries. Of this number, approximately 36,000 are expected to be inducted into the army this year.

When Adjutant General Edward Martin, head of the Department of Military Affairs, receives a telegram from the war department informing him that the Burke-Wadsworth act has become law with the president's signature, he will present Governor James with a carefully drawn-up list of volunteer draft board personnel.

Governor To Name Boards

Governor James will then select the following personnel: A state draft director, who is expected to be a civilian; 1260 members of draft boards, three for each of the 420 board; an examining physician, government appeal agent and volunteer appeal agent for each of the boards; and seven district appeal boards, each composed of one representative of medicine, agriculture, labor, industry and law.

The names of all the personnel, with the possible exceptions of the state draft director, must be submitted to the president for his approval, a routine matter in most instances.

Governor James is expected to have at least two weeks in which to name the administrators of the draft law. The draft boards cannot operate until after the men have been registered. President Roosevelt is expected to set a registration date near the end of September.

The first call for perhaps 75,000 draftees may be issued by the president around mid-October. Approximately 6,792 Pennsylvanians are expected to be affected by this call, with similar groups called up at regular intervals after that, perhaps every two or three weeks.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Medical men are trying to forget the word "ptomaine."

It is doubted if there is such a thing as a ptomaine.

Yet many persons refer to any stomach upset as "ptomaine poisoning."

Botulism is one of the most fatal of acute food poisonings.

This particular poison is found often in home-canned foods.

Amateurish efforts at canning frequently produce the poison.

String beans, corn, spinach, beets asparagus are subject.

Most outbreaks occur when such home-preserved vegetables are served.

Commercial canners know how to destroy the heat-resisting poison.

It is not always easy for the house wife to do the same.

Hence her canned products when opened need boiling 6 more minutes.

The death rate from botulism is high--don't take chances.

District Sportsmen Meet At Linesville

Lawrence County Represented By Ellwood Delegate, Odd H. McCleary

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 16.—On Sunday the quarterly meeting of the Northwest Association of Sportsmen's clubs was held at the Linesville grange hall with the Lawrence County Council being represented by their delegate, Odd H. McCleary, this city.

In the morning 24 members of the association were taken on a boat tour of the Pymatuning game and bird sanctuary by the supervisor, Bert Oudette and they were greatly impressed with the varied and abundant species of wild life.

Fish Commissioner Charles French and the state chief fish culturist, Ross Buller, were there and lifted the nets, showing thousands of fish, some 26 inches in length. They stated that 700,000 fish from the sanctuary had been used to stock Pennsylvania streams. Mr. French said that plans were formulated for building a large hatchery there that would supply all the western end of the state.

A formal business meeting was held in the afternoon with the association taking an "out and out" stand as to keeping the dam in as primitive condition as possible, barring motor boats completely.

All of the clubs are to have resolutions for 1940 in the hands of their delegates not later than December when the next meeting will be held at Marienville, Forest county. All dues must also be paid by that time.

An election of officers was held and resulted: President, Ray Armstrong, Guy's Mills; vice president, Dale Skinner, Evans City; secretary, Seth Myers, Sharon; treasurer, Dr. Mills, Clarion. Retiring President Gear of Warren was lauded for his splendid services during the past year.

The meeting concluded with the serving of a sumptuous chicken supper by women of the grange.

Klingensmith To Battle Delarado In Arena Tonight

Klingensmith Has Chance To Return Here If He Defeats Delarado

RETARDO, LAZIER AND FILIGENZI ON CARD

Enthusiasts of real hard boxing, will enjoy tonight's Fistic carnival in The Arena, where the first of eight fracases is docketed to start at 8:30 p. m.

This seems certain because, the two main and licensed boxers are reportedly "kayo" punchers, or fighters capable of co-ordinating brain, brawn and weight, then delivering a neatly delivered punch to a vulnerable spot.

Both Own A Title

The two who are supposed to possess qualifications, far in excess to the run-of-mine amateurs are Ted Delarado, East Liverpool who owns the welterweight championship of West Virginia and Marion Klingensmith of Vestaburg who not long ago won the McKeesport police boxing tourney 147 pound title.

Signor Ted already has proved his mettle here. However, Herr Marion has tonight to display his. According to some of the boys around tin ear realto they wouldn't be surprised to see Herr Marion do unto Signor Ted what Ted did unto Joe Provident recently and that was, win by a "kayo."

These disciples of such former greats as Jack Britton, Ted Lewis, Soldier Bartfield, Johnny Griffith, the Dundees and Belloises, are rapidly forging forward and like some others who have fought here prior, hope to swell the rangs of professionals as soon as they become more qualified with experience, or offers roll in.

Many New Faces Tonight

Having trained diligently for two weeks there is no reason why either of them should not put up a good fight. Tied must if he wants to continue to bask in the lap of local fandom's favor. And figuring on future appearances here, it is imperative that Klingensmith put forth all he owns.

While the Delarado vs Klingensmith joust is designed as the feature, there'll be considerable smacking of jowls when Babe Retardo, the Ellwood City featherweight tackles Babe Krause, Golden Glove featherweight champion of McKeesport.

Before these bouts are unfurled two local boys will step forth, receive a welcoming shout from the man-pack; then unleash punches thither and yon. The local lads are Gido Feligenzi who boxes Jack Reta of Youngstown at 135 and Les Lazier who meets Tom Sadatore of Warren at 147.

Tommy Bell To Fight

Feligenzi and Lazier are new to the game and fans should not expect too much from them or their opponents. Rome wasn't built in a day and no boy who crashes into the fight game can be expected to know his boxing gloves from B to G until after several years study.

There are some other good looking bouts on the card as follows:

Bud Watson, East Liverpool vs Tom Brockan, Warren, 135 pounds; Kid Halakie, Vestaburg vs Tony Karkido, Youngstown, 118 pounds; Carl Jones, Vestaburg vs Tommy Bell, Youngstown, 147 pounds and Pete Misto, Campbell vs John Zokosky, Warren, O.

Practically the entire card, excepting Delarado, Retardo, Bell and Misto are newcomers. Owing to the demand for new faces Matchmaker Tommy Leach signed as many as he could secure and with plenty of socking anticipated it is likely the crowd will out-swell previous ones. The doors will open at 7:30 p. m.

New Golf Champ Well Known Here

Mother Is Former New Castle Woman—Champ Is Cousin Of Stewart Foltz

Dick Chapman, national amateur golf champion is a son of New York, State but he is a grandson of New Castle. The champion is a son of Mrs. John D. Chapman, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Mrs. Chapman is the former Miss Adelaide Foltz, daughter of the late William S. Foltz. The new champion is a cousin of Stewart Foltz, of the First National bank of Lawrence county.

Chapman won an amazing victory over Duff McCullough of Abington, Pa., defeating him by 11 up and nine to go, the most decisive triumph since C. B. McDonald defeated W. H. Sands in 1895, the first year of the tournament. It was the second most decided victory in all the history of the national amateur.

Chapman also gave tradition a pushing around in the tournament at the Winged Foot club in Mamaroneck, N. Y. He was the medalist and the last medalist to win the tournament was Bobby Jones in 1930.

Mrs. Chapman is known here and has visited New Castle many times.

Arena Girls Win Softball Title

Defeat Booker T. Washington Girls Sunday 8 To 3 At Gaston Park

The Arena girls softball team won the 1940 girls championship yesterday at Gaston Park field 8 to 3. The winning pitcher was "Toots" Reiter, the loser was Martha Sessions. Manager Jimmy Geramita is being congratulated on all sides, as well as the girls for the fine triumph that they have achieved.

The second game yesterday ended in a tie. The Arenas played heads-up ball to defeat the last year champions. Only seven hits were registered, the Arenas having three, the Booker T. Washingtons four.

Besides hurling a swell game Miss Reiter was one of the batting stars of the game along with Dora Naples, and Miss Albert.

There are about 150 girls playing softball here in New Castle. This is the second year for the organized league. Rocco P. Viggiano is the president of the girls league here and has done a fine job of supervising the league.

Salaminia upset a group of leading three-year-old fillies when she won the historic Alabama stakes at Saratoga recently.

Bill Long Is Golf Champion At Castle Hills

Defeat Professor McKee Saturday 3 And 2 In Fine Match, Under Par Second 18

Bill Long is the new champion at Castle Hills golf course, having defeated Professor McKee of Westminster college Saturday 3 and 2. The match ended in the afternoon on the 16th green where both took threes.

Long shot brilliant golf to win his championship. He was driving consistently over 200 yards and his putter was working like magic. Long in the morning 18 had a medal of 74 and in the afternoon 18 had a medal of 71, which is one under par for the tough Castle Hills layout.

McKee had a 76 in the morning round and in the afternoon had a 72 which is exactly par golf.

Quite a nice gallery followed the match and young Long was given a fine round of applause as he sunk the putt that gave him the championship.

Chapman New Amateur Champ

Defeats Duff McCullough 11 And 9 Saturday At Winged Foot Course

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Crooner Dick Chapman, the new national amateur champion, should be more than a champion to the toiling caddies all over this country today. He should be their idol.

In these times when many of your heroes among the modern professionals give a caddy scarcely more than a good excuse at the end of a week of tournament club-toting, it took Chapman, an amateur, to garnish his sensational 11 and 9 title over Duff McCullough with a gracious touch reminiscent of the old days when the boy cashed in with his champion.

While Chapman was winning the qualifying medal with a score only one stroke higher than the all-time record and finally winning the title by a margin within one hole of another all-time mark, you didn't hear a thing about a tall, stringbeanish 25-year-old fellow named Jack Armstrong. He didn't swing a club, nor did he order anyone about with the authority of officialdom. But he was in the thick of it right from Monday through Saturday, and his importance, at least to Chapman was established at the finish.

Caddy Gets $200

The new champion wrote Armstrong a check for $200, in addition to $10, which was handed him for spending money at the start of the tournament, and Chapman said, with a handshake and a pat on the back:

"I can't tell you how much you helped me, Jack. Thanks."

Thus did the new amateur king begin his incumbency with a championship gesture. He won like a champion and apparently he is going to act like one.

The story of Chapman's triumph is one of those things that eventually must become a legend, for he made up his mind a year ago when he lost out in this tournament at Chicago that he would win it at Mamaroneck.

When the tournament was awarded to Winged Foot he joined the club, kept himself in shape with constant practice there, and finally cashed in on it all, not in actual cash but in whatever may accrue from it. For one thing it won't do him any harm in his night club crooning. He was an attraction as a society crooner and will be that doubled twice over now. And he can use anything he can get, according to latest reports. He's not broke, they say, but you know how fortunes are these days.

Lehigh Grid Team Outlook Favorable

Despite 13 Lettermen Graduating Lehigh Looks For Strong Team

Will Have Fine Backfield Is Indicated, Play Fairly Tough Schedule

(International News Service)

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 16.—Despite the loss of 13 experienced men from last year's squad, Lehigh university will enter a nine-game 1940 football schedule with more attacking power than any Brown and White eleven in years, Coach Glen W. Harmeson predicted today.

Although his combination last season won only three games while losing six, the veteran mentor is counting upon backfield punch to better the record this fall.

"The backfield will carry more power and speed than for several seasons," said Harmeson at Taylor stadium, where a squad of 35 players was called out for first drills on September 3.

Good Backfield

"Charles Conover is expected to lead the attack from the halfback spot because he passes, blocks and runs well. Other returning backs are Rob Walker, Steve Smoke and Emery Loomis. However, these senior backs may be edged out of starting berths by a sophomore trio consisting of Ed. Cavanaugh, Bernie Deehan and William Hayes.

"The biggest problem," the gridiron mentor added, "will be in the tackle division. The center of the line will be well fortified with regulars of the past two campaigns returning for center and guard duty. The tackle situation will depend a great deal on Stan Grossman, who earned a first-string tackle berth in his sophomore year, but who failed last year because of poor physical condition and because of reporting late. Ends will be about as strong as the wingmen of the last three seasons."

Harmeson, former Purdue grid star who is serving his seventh year as head man of Lehigh football, has two other backfield men to brighten the season's outlook in Joe Ambrogi, Lansdowne, Pa., fullback, and John Lampert, quarterback from Carlstadt, N. J. Lampert, a junior, is regarded as potentially the best Brown and White field general in five years and Ambrogi is fast, a good kicker and has the best driving power of all the ball carriers.

Have Fine Card

Psychology is expected—in the last analysis—to play a deciding factor in the success or failure of the Lehigh pigskin campaign, according to the coaching staff. The mental attitude of the team will have an important bearing on results, Harmeson explained.

Lehigh opens its schedule September 28 by visiting the University of Virginia at Charlottesville. Subsequent games: Oct. 5, Case at Cleveland; Oct. 12, Rutgers, home; Oct. 19, Penn State, home; Oct. 26, Hampden-Sydney, home; Nov. 2, Haverford, home; Nov. 9, Muhlenberg, home; Nov. 16, Lowell Textile, home; Nov. 23, Lafayette, at Easton.

Indians Regain League Lead

Defeat Athletics Twice Sunday As St. Louis Browns Defeat Yanks Twice

By ED KIELY
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—There are only 14 baseball days remaining on the big leagues' schedule today and those warring Cleveland Indians, the team of many managers, once again are tenants of the chief tepee of the junior circuit pennant grounds.

The torrid race now shapes up like a two-team affair between Detroit and Cleveland and may not be decided until the final days of the season when the two clubs meet in a three-game series in Cleveland. The tribe and the Tigers still have to meet in six battles, the first all-important series being scheduled for Detroit, beginning September 20.

Browns Win Two

The gallant comeback of the New York Yankees came to a virtual close yesterday when the giant-killing seventh-place St. Louis Browns took the champions in both ends of a double-header, 10 to 5 and 2 to 1. The whole afternoon, as far as the McCarthymen were concerned, was nothing more than the end of the depression for the Browns' board of directors. The twin-bill was played before 17,247 fans, the largest crowd to see the Browns on their home lot in years.

The Indians, playing together like a group of happy brethren which they are not, jumped from one-half game behind the lead to one game ahead by taking two contests from the hapless Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 0 and 8 to 5, while the Tigers blew a single contest to the Washington Senators 6 to 1.

It was noteworthy that the Clevelanders proved just as anxious as the next club to lay their hands on a world series bonus by fighting back to overcome a four-run lead and capture the second game. The first contest was all Bobby Feller, who whitewashed the A's on two singles.

Tigers Defeated

Veteran Dutch Leonard cast his knuckleball spell over the Bengals and missed a shut out by the narrow margin of Rudy York's 28th homer in the second inning.

Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox, easily the class of the league at the moment, plastered a double defeat on the Boston Red Sox 5 to 1 and 4 to 2, to close their gap on the Yankees to one-half game. A crowd of 39,517 turned out to see the doubleheader and also to honor the ageless Ted Lyons with gifts valued at $4,500. Lyons, apparently pleased as Punch, turned in a three-hitter to win the opener for the pale hose.

The National league race, as if you didn't know, is all over but the shouting. The leading Cincinnati Reds, giving the second-place Brooklyn club their last chance to catch up in a current series in Flatbush, increased their lead to nine full games by winning the opener of a twin bill, 13 to 3, and then battling to a 1 to 1 11-inning tie in the nightcap, which was called because of darkness. Bucky Walters was the winning pitcher in the opener and thereby became the first senior circuit hurler to annex 20 victories.

St. Louis tripped Philadelphia, 7 to 0 and 3 to 1; Pittsburgh snapped a five-game losing streak and dropped the New York Giants into sixth place by taking two battles, 10 to 3 and 4 to 3, and Chicago replaced the Giants in first place in the second division although they split a double-header with the Boston Bees, winning the nightcap, 7 to 4 after dropping the opener 7 to 3.

East High Will Be Here Friday

New Castle Faces Tough Youngstown High Team Here Friday Night

New Castle High football team will face another tough foe here Friday night at Taggart Stadium in Youngstown East High. It will be the third game for the "Red Hurricane" and the first for the Ohioans. The kickoff at 8 o'clock will find the stands well filled.

The locals came out of the Butler game without any serious injuries. Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will give the boys plenty of work this week.

Will Seek Revenge

Youngstown will come here with the intention of wiping out that 13 to 0 defeat handed to them last year by the locals. Coach Dick Barrett while not having a veteran team back, has a number of reserves from last year, who were in enough games to get exercise.

Almost the entire Youngstown squad sat in on the New Castle-Butler game last Friday night and saw what transpired. It is no secret that the Ohioans harbor a desire to upset the New Castle boys.

Freddy McKee and young Robert E. "General" Lee played fine football for New Castle last Friday night. Both are former Washington High stars. The New Castle line looked very good in the Butler game. No changes on the line are anticipated this week.

Moose Defeat Pottery Team

Win Sylvan Heights Golf League Championship Sunday Afternoon

New Castle Moose, who came from behind with a rush to nose out Scarazzo's at the end of the season to win the second half championship in the Slyvan Heights Golf League, defeated the Shenango Pottery team for the league title at Sylvan Heights course, Sunday afternoon, scoring a 10-8 victory over the potters.

Both teams were evenly matched, and there were no handicaps used in this struggle, the players going into the fray on an even basis. The Nashua system of scoring was used, one point for each nine, and one for total score, and while the Pottery team finished up with the lowest scores by their sextet, the fact that Frank Summers and Carl McIltrot scored a clean sweep against Bud Long and Bill Payne, provided the margin of victory for the Moose. Pete Dimeco was the only Potter able to score a sweep on his opponent Tobe Fenati. James Gaione of the Potters was medalist with a round of 75.

The winners will be presented with a handsome trophy, and individual awards at the dinner next Sunday, which will follow the Field Day program at Sylvan Heights for league members and sponsors.

The lineup and score of the match was as follows:

New Castle Moose	Score	Pts.
Kennedy	41-38	2
Mazzeri	38-41	1
McIltrot	38-43	3
Summers	38-40	3
Fenati	41-41	0
M. Lombardo	41-43	1
Shenango Pottery	Score	Pts.
Perrotta	41-39	1
Gaione	39-36	2
Long	45-40	0
Payne	38-40	0
P. Dimeco	36-40	3
A. Cimini	42-37	2

PRINCETON WINS

Princeton high's baseball team scored an 18-5 victory at the expense of Prospect. The game was played on Prospect field.

Glasser and Johnson formed the Princeton battery, while Shaffer and Grindel teamed up for the losers. The two teams battle again today.

BROTHER, NEVER AGAIN WILL I DRINK THAT STUFF!

Honest injun, we ain't fooling You aren't seeing things. The pretty faces above are members of the Dartmouth Indians' football team Of course the boys are wearing realistic masks. Left to right? Shucks, what difference does it make if we said Chief Oskewoowoo was second from right or standing in rear? They all look alike to us—and you, too.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Monday wash:—Norm "Scoots" Nelson, the "Hurricane" faculty manager, reports that approximately 13,000 fans have filed past the turnstiles at Taggart stadium for New Castle's high's first two games. With five more games carded for the local bowl, Nelson hopes that the home attendance figures will zoom to the 60,000 mark before the moleskins are packed away . . .

Mayor Charles B. Mayne, who skipped the chalk lines back in the days of the flying wedge and the tackle tandem, whatever that was, is an avid fan. So far, he hasn't missed either of the "Hurricane" battles. "I won't miss any of the home games if I have the say," the genial mayor declares . . .

Night football scored quite a hit with Ellwood City fans the other night. The owl game was introduced through the medium of a portable lighting system. The experiment cost close to $100.00.

Those 8,000 or more fans who watched New Castle-Butler stage one of those wild and woolly affairs, saw history in the making. In the fourth, Al Bucci deserted his end post, stepped back to his 15 and lofted a punt that reached Butler's 11—a 74 yard kick. From the scrimmage line, the punt traveled 64 yards. If this isn't some kind of a scholastic mark, it's close to it . . .

Elmer Layden is somewhat concerned about the draft bill, or should be. Eight of his starters are eligible.....They say Virginia Military Institute is a "sleeper". Some of the greatest backs in the land are reportedly on the 'Brother Rat' outfit.....If you're interested, Maxie Baer is 2 to 1 to bowl over Patrick Comiskey . . .

Marius Russo, Yankee standout, pitched 14 complete games before he was lifted out of the box the other day.....The New York Giants rank as one of the worst home clubs in baseball—not to mention their prosaic road jaunts. The Jints dropped one more game at home than they won during the first half program. The count hasn't been completed for the last half . . .

College Grid Fodder Box

Pittsburgh—One record is certain to be shattered when Pitt and Ohio State tee-off in Columbus, September 28. Neither club has dropped an opener.

The Panthers and Buckeyes have met fou rtimes, Pitt holding the edge with two victories, a single setback and a tie.

Buckhannon, W. Va.—Rough work in extra large doses is the tonic prescribed by head coach C. B. "Cebe" Ross for his West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcat gridmen.

Defensively, the linemen are showing good work while on the other hand their blocking is none too clean on the offense. Ross has shifted a few of his regulars from the posts they held in spring training to spots where they fit in better since the addition of new material.

Notre Dame, Ind.—The Fighting Irish are honest again in 1940. Irish Elmer Layden, Notre Dame's head coach, has discovered 20 candidates on his varsity squad of 73—66 of whom were invited back for workouts—who have fathers and mothers of Irish extraction. An additional 18 claimed part-Irish ancestry, giving the sons of Erin a total of 38 or a majority on the squad.

Prominent first team candidates, however, include Capt. Milt Piepul, Bob Hargrave, George Rassas, John Gubanich, Steve Juzwik, Bob Osterman and Bob Saggau Other leading tongue-twisters include John Peasenelli, Nick Pepelnjak, John Kovatch, Ed. Kopshever, Tony Girolami, Andy Chlebeck, Joe Postupack, Lou Rymkus and Walt Ziemba.

Five Germans, four Poles, and four Italians take runner-up honors to the Irish. There are combinations present of Irish with German, English, Swedish, Bohemian and Scotch.

Lexington, Ky.—Although 40 of the 59 men who reported for the opening of football practice at the University of Kentucky on September 1 are natives of the Bluegrass State, their captain, tackle John Eibner, is a "furriner." He hails from Jeanette, Pa.

PITTSBURGH—The first days of scrimmaging failed to result in any changes in the tentative Pitt lineups, but a few sophomores did manage to break into the first and second outfits.

When Edgar Jones, Panther left half, suffered a slight recurrence of an old injury, Frank Saksa, rugged sophomore from Braddock, was called into the first team, and immediately did a good job of line smashing and running.

Easton, Pa.—After ten days at Camp Wyomissing, Lafayette college is beginning to take form for the opening game with Ursinus on Sept. 28, as Head Coach Hook Mylin and his staff become familiar with the ability of the 37 candidates in camp. Coach Mylin is holding his fingers crossed as he is experimenting with Walter Zirinsky, one of his best backs, at fullback.

Ever since Mylin came to Lafayette, four years ago the fullback post has been his jinx, as he lost one after another capable player in that position through injuries or ineligibility.

Champaign, Ill.—Sixty-one names appear on the revised roster of University of Illinois football candidates who were asked to report to the training table with the opening of practice.

Players who are not assigned to the table may also practice and may be promoted to the table when vacancies occur and their showing warrants, Coach Zuppke said.

Notre Dame has asked for an allotment of 5,000 tickets for its game in the Illinois stadium Oct. 26, Manager C. E. Bowen announces.

This is one of the largest requests received from an opponent in many years, Manager Bowen states. The Irish supporters will be assigned to the west side.

College Station, Texas—Football came back to Texas A. & M. college with a bang as 54 Texas Aggies began training for the 1940 campaign under the guidance of Head Coach Homer Norton and his staff of nine assistants, including the freshmen coaches.

No time was lost on usual toughening exercises and before the first day was over he had them "rocking heads" in semi-tough scrimmage.

Another unusual phase was that the players all remembered the plays, even the first year men, and all stepped through the signal drills against opponents lines with the precision of teams much longer in training.

Ithaca—Rated as one of the best teams in the nation last year, Cornell will be hard put to equal its undefeated record. Coach Snavely says: "I have my fingers crossed. While we will have a veteran team, we will be short in reserves. If we can rise to the heights of morale achieved last year, and if we can avoid injuries in vital positions, we should have a fairly good team."

The tip-off on how Carl Snavely feels about his 1940 team came when he winked his eye and admitted, "We ought to win at least two games this year."

ALL-STARS WIN GAME

The Washington All-Stars won a Six-man football game Saturday, defeating the Rose Bowl Panthers 36 to 26. Both teams played good football. For games with the Panthers call 5860. The average weight limit is 130 pounds.

Every one of the nine foes Temple university will face in football during the 1940 campaign registered more points during the 1939 season than the Owls, which means that the Temple mentor, Ray Morrison, who took over last spring, has quite a job in developing an offense to outscore such top-flight elevens as Holy Cross, Boston college, Michigan State, Villanova, Oklahoma and Penn State.

The 16th annual Los Angeles open golf championship next Jan. 3-6 at the Riviera Country club in the heart of an exclusive residential area populated largely by Hollywood film stars, will be a $10,000 event.

The Elders wtih Paul Minner on the mound defeated the West Side Tigers yesterday at Elders field in the first game of a double bill 10 to 6. Paul Morrison was the losing hurler.

Bus Layton was the feature hitter, slamming out a long homer. Other extra-base hitters were Witherow and Davies. The Elders had one big inning, the fourth, when they tallied six runs.

The second game ended in a 6-6 tie after five innings. Dolly Hartman and Faller were the opposing hurlers, each pitching fine ball.

The series to date stands West Side Tigers won 3 and lost 1, Elders won 1 and lost 3. One game was tied. The next games of the series will be next Sunday at Elders field. The Tigers need one more victory to cinch the series.

Bert Haas of the Montreal club put his face within six inches of a slowly rolling ball down the base line and huffed and puffed. The ball rolled into foul territory. Members of the opposing team protested, writes Sec Taylor in "The Des Moines Register," but the umpires said they could find no rule to prevent an infielder from blowing on the ball so long as there was no actual contact.

South Hills Bags City-County Independent Title Series Opener

With P. Pulisco and Mingione providing the stick work and Vernino supplying the hurling, South Hills grabbed the first of a five game series for the City-County Independent Baseball League gonfalon, spilling the West Side A. C., 7-4, yesterday on Lee avenue field.

A big gallery witnessed an exceedingly thrilling game. The Hillers forged ahead 4-0 in the opening chukker. The sixth warders punched across a pair of runs in the second and then deadlocked the count in the fifth. Three runs in the eighth and ninth gave the Hills outfit the triumph.

P. Bulisco and Mingione each bounced out three hits for the winners. Parrott connected twice for bingles. Vernino tossed a six hitter. For the West Side, M. Kearns starred at bat, rapping a triple and a single. Bechtol started out was relieved by Stewart.

The second game will be played Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock on South Hills field.

Titans Prepare For Grid Season

Westminster Eleven Will Take Field Against Edinboro On September 21

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 16.—The 1940 edition of the Westminster Titans will be rugged but inexperienced, with a heavy sprinkling of freshmen in the starting lineup, as Coach Grover Washabaugh sent his Titans through scrimmages this week in preparation for the season-opener at Edinboro, Saturday, September 21.

The Titan spirit is the best in years; and although Westminster gridders will lack reserves, they will have a better passing and running attack than last year. There will be only one senior on the squad, Paul Rood, Kittanning.

The Blue and White's best bets for ends are Bob Washabaugh, New Wilmington, and Ted Ossoff, Oil City, both good pass-receivers, and first string terminals last year.

At tackle, Duane Davis, Slippery Rock transfer; Dan Harris, 210 pound Charleroi linesman; and Dave Reed, West Virginia sophomore, are showing up well.

Guard positions point to Rodney Lane, Johnstown sophomore; Paul Rood, Kittanning senior; and Charles Horton, East Liverpool freshman. At center, Washabaugh is grooming Jack Tack, Butler, and Jim Wilson, Canton O Last year, the Titans lost both Captain Dale Youkers and Stan Lutton, centers, through graduation.

With Tony Valicenti, midget Mt Lebanon senior, on the delinquent list, the call at quarterback will probably go to Dick Newton, Ellwood City sophomore. At the fullback post, Washabaugh will have John Hill, Donora freshman, and Art Edwards, New Wilmington junior. Hill is aggressive and a good blocker; Edwards can use his 200 pounds to good advantage in line-smashing.

Second choice at the quarter-job goes to Pete Evanoff, Erie junior, fast ball-carrier. For the halfback assignments, the Titans have Dale Riggle, Vandergrift; the Demoise twins, Felix and Joe, of Greensburg, both good passers and kickers.

The present Titan squad numbers 30 players.

Frank Mogey Is New Golf Champ

Defeats Martin Segedi With Brilliant Display At Sylvan Heights

Frank Mogey, a newcomer in local golfing ranks, won the city championship title at Sylvan Heights course Sunday, when he shot a subpar round of 69 in the morning round to gain a four-up advantage over Martin Segedi, the other finalist, and coasted home during the afternoon round to win by score of 6 and 5.

Mogey, like a number of other golfing greats got his start in Scotland, locating here during the past year. He has been playing a superb game of golf all summer long, and went into the finals by eliminating Frank Summers, Ted Lach, James Pagley, and Steve Yeager, four extremely good golfers.

Segedi, no mean opponent for anyone, was not on Sunday, or he might have made the match more interesting, but he would have had to have shot some super golf to match Mogey's brilliant play, particularly during the morning round. Mogey's total was 69-74, 143; while Segedi's scores were 73-76, 149.

Fred Lombardo defeated Art Prioletti for the championship of the second flight, with a 3 and 2 margin. Lombardo shot a brilliant 77 round during the morning to gain a five up advantage over Prioletti, which the latter whittled down to a one up margin during the afternoon, only to falter on the home stretch. Lombardo had rounds of 77 and 79 for a 156 total, while Prioletti put together rounds of 82-77 for a 159 score.

An effort is being made to bring together Mogey and Bill Long, who won the Castle Hills title, in the near future, and both players are agreeable, it is expected to see the match arranged for Sunday, September 29. An 18-hole round will be played on each of the Sylvan Heights and Castle Hills courses.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESSERALL

Time sure flies . . . here it is the middle of September . . . that leaves us just eighty-four shoping days until Christmas . . . some folks are starting to do their Christmas shopping now . . . some have it about all finished . . . just a few odds and ends to pick up when the time grows short. We hope that all is peaceful when Christmas arrives . . . that each and every one of you can sit down with your family and enjoy yourself.

* * *

This and next month will find quite a few popular young men of New Castle enter into the bonds of marriage . . . we are glad to see them join the fraternity and hope they enjoy their married life as much as we boys who are already life members . . . they must always keep in mind the first rule of this fraternity . . . it takes two to make and hold the bond . . . there will be stormy weather when things will not go as they had been planned . . . but with careful control of one's temper it will soon be smooth sailing again . . . life is a game and as the rule for all games or whatever you do . . . you just get out what you put in.

* * *

Traffic control seems to be one of the greatest problems that confronts our local police force . . . and the reason, we see, for this: is because some of our good citizens don't seem to give a damn about laws . . . Stop signs are placed at street intersections for a definite purpose . . . and everyone is expected to obey them . . . some of the old timers seem to think that because they have lived in town for a great number of years they have the privilege to break traffic laws . . . we have witnessed some of these folks easing through stop signs and when they are stopped by the police, they are not any too courteous (old timers) . . come, come folks, this country was not made by your type of people . . . just because you have been here a long time is no reason why you can't help to keep our safety record clean . . . let's all watch our driving and obey the traffic laws.

Boy, do we like this time of the year . . . the smell of tomatoes being cooked down to make chili sauce, peaches going into the cold packer . . . pickles, delicious dill and bread and butter kind. Boy this is the time of year . . . and when the cellar is full of canned foods . . . there is a satisfaction that makes you sort of feel like you were sitting on top of the world.

Market Continues With Saturday's Rally As New Week Starts

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The stock market today extended Saturday's modest rally with several leaders advancing a point or more. A few special issues were up as much as 3.

Trading continued at a slow pace, although initial dealings brought out some large blocks of stock. N. Y. Central gained a half-point and U. S. Steel a point, each opening with sales of 2,000 shares.

Steels were leaders on the rise, which got underway with opening transactions. Best levels were shaded in the second hour, but the list maintained a strong undertone.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem each were up about 1½ points before their rise was checked. Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Republic advanced fractionally.

Philip Morris jumped more than 2 points on two sales, while the Volatile Dow Chemical jumped 3. Chrysler, American Smelting, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone and Santa Fe each showed extreme gains of a point or more.

Elsewhere fractional improvement was the rule. A handful of stocks lagged, including Liggett & Myers "B" and some of the utilities. Union Carbide was off ¾ at the opening, but converted its loss into an equal gain later in the morning.

Increasing Interest In Legend Of Pymatuning

HARRISBURG, Sept. 16.—Interest in the legend of "Pymatuning", the name of a state park and lake in northwestern Pennsylvania, continues to mount. Several persons take exceptions to its meaning, "crooked mouthed man's dwelling place", the State Department of Commerce said.

Later explanations come from an Erie newspaper columnist who bases his comment on information believed to have come from early pioneers. According to this, the original Indian name applied to the region was "py-am-she," meaning "quiet water". In 1756, Louis Evans used that name when he wrote of this swampy area of northwestern Pennsylvania. The columnist has in his possession an English map dated about 1780 bearing the words, "Shemingo" and "Pentuning", Indian tribal names. The Indians no doubt had a word for it, but different interpretations are responsible for the present confusion.

Colonel Henry W. Shoemaker of the Pennsylvania Historical commission offers the explanation given by Heckewelder, a Moravian missionary, that the Indian name was "Pihmotonink," meaning "where the man with the hair-lip resides". The missionary is supposed to have known the man personally. "Regardless of the name or its meaning," Colonel Shoemaker said, "Pymatuning is still the largest artificial lake in Pennsylvania and one of the most beautiful."

Mrs. Mabel Blair was named matron, effective June 1, to succeed Mrs. Ellen Patterson, who has retired. The president of the college, Dale McMaster, presented his first report to the trustees, and his recommendations were approved unanimously.

Wendell L. Willkie is going to get one vote that he would undoubtedly appreciate if he knew of it. Among the registrants on Saturday morning who qualified to vote was Mrs. Ruth Annah Murdock of 203 Hillcrest avenue a lady who will be ninety one years of age next February.

Aside from a slight deafness Mrs. Murdoch has her faculties and talked interestingly as she registered. "I have voted ever since women were given the vote" said she.

Asked what party she wished to register with she said emphatically, "I am a Republican". When she was sworn and Registrar Charles D. Ross asked her if she swore to the truth of her statements she replied with a little smile, "I do, I was raised a Quaker."

With her son-in-law and daughter Mrs. Murdoch moved here from Bridgeport, O., about 17 months ago. She is for Willkie.

Huge Shipment Of Wool Will Be Sent To America

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—One quarter og a billion pounds—40 shiploads—of raw wool from Australia and New Zealand, will be shipped by the British government to the United States, and a large part of it will be stored in Boston, it was revealed today.

The huge shipment will be kept in this country for safe-keeping, it was reported, but for any that is used here, United States customs will collect a tariff of 31 cents per pound scoured basis.

American growers, fearful huge supplies of the wool may be sold in this country, have appealed to the national defense advisory commission. Carlos J. Fawcett, of Newton, general manager of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, conferred with the advisory commission, but declined to discuss the incoming shipment.

Huge warehouses lining Fort Point channel in Boston will probably be filled to capacity by the British wool, providing temporary work for warehousemen, truckmen, handlers and shipping concerns.

Some of the wool will be brought direct to Boston from Australia and New Zealand while additional amounts will be landed at Pacific coast ports and taken across the country by rail.

Japan Protests U. S. Embargo On Gasoline

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Sept. 16—The foreign office spokesman announced today that Japan protested to Washington five weeks ago over the United States embargo on aviation gasoline.

The protest, conveyed by the Japanese ambassador in Washington to under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, charged that America's refusal to send gasoline to Japan was discriminatory and unfair.

A foreign office spokesman stated that Welles had sent a written reply to Ambassador Kensuke Horinouchi, but declined to reveal the contents or the nature of the American answer.

Later, on August 13, Welles and Horinouchi conferred on almost all outstanding questions between the two countries, the spokesman said. None of the discussed problems were settled he added.
